

Department of Food Safety and Management Admission Policy

We seek people who understand the educational goals and academic requirements of Showa Women's University, those with a strong interest in food safety, production, distribution, and sales who wish to contribute to society by using the specialized knowledge and skills they acquire in this program. We seek applicants who can successfully complete the course of study of this department. We therefore recruit applicants through various and comprehensive entrance methods.

1. Recommended field of study and subjects to learn before entrance

- Language Arts: The student should be able to understand sentences, words, and phrases precisely, along with being able to communicate information.
- Foreign Language: The student should have acquired the 4 skills of English (listening, speaking, reading, writing) studied in high school, and be able to use the language.
- Science: The student should be able to understand the basic content of chemistry and biology learned in high school.
- Mathematics: The student should be able to understand basic mathematics as it relates to natural science and social science analysis.

(2) Learning habits to have before entrance

- In order to understand issues related to food domestically and internationally, the student should be able to analyze and understand information gained from the media.
- The student should be interested in the characteristics of local food.
- The student be interested in global economics and business.
- The student should make herself aware of various point of view.
- The student should work to acquire a wide perspective by developing relationships with people from different cultures and social backgrounds.